Children join biggest trade show in Europe

My Future My Choice works with school children to show them the possibilities of a career in engineering. Sponsored this year by Liebherr, it will set up in the Newton Stand organising several workshops for local school children in order to help ignite an interest at an early age. As part of the workshop it will take the children on a guided tour of the show exploring the principles of pneumatics, hydraulics, gears and pulleys. This will involve the children being given tasks to do that involve visiting stands and interacting with exhibitors, and of course they may not have much idea of business etiquette!

So we are asking for your support, politeness and tolerance ...and to keep an eye out for what might be the future of crane, access and telehandler people!
